500 PATRONS AT OPENING NIGHT PURE FOOD SHOW

Fine Displays, Good Entertainment Have Been Provided.

The opening night of the Pure Food Show staged by the Merchants' Division of the Dixon Chamber of Commerce was a great success. Long before 8 o'clock, the time of opening of the show, hundreds of people were in the K. of C. hall, gathered around the different booths, sampling quality brand merchandise. The Y. M. C. A. band under the leadership of Prof. H. P. Stearns, rendered a number of selections and was roundly applauded.

Address of Welcome.

Mark Smith, Mayor of Dixon, was introduced by Secretary-Manager O'Connell. He complimented the merchants of Dixon on their spirit of cooperation and their enterprise in giving the public of Dixon an opportunity to see and test their merchandise. He stated that as his position made him chairman of the board of health, he was especially interested in pure food products.

The Rice orchestra added to the enjoyment of the throng by many selections and the saxophone-violin duet by Hughes Brewster and Lyle Prescott was thoroughly enjoyed.

On account of the great number of citizens interested in the food show no children will be admitted without their parents and the merchants will be at their booths the remaining two days from 2 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon for the purpose of talking with customers and taking orders. Remember the Dixon grocers are willing to fill any orders that were intended for the mail order houses at the same price as quoted by the mail order house, giving quality goods for same.

Remember the time, 8 to 10 p. m. Prizes awarded 9:15 each night.

RAIDERS IN IRELAND KIDNAPPED UNIONIST MEMBERS THIS MORN

Large Number Rushed to Unknown Destinations
During the Day.

Belfast, Feb. 8.—(By the Associated Press).—A large number of the leading Unionists of counties Fermanagh and Tyrone, in the Ulster area, were kidnapped from their homes early today and taken to unknown destinations. Fifteen arrests have been made in connection with the kidnappings.

The raiders are believed to have come from counties Cavan and Longford, near the border. The forces known as the "B-Specials" were mobilized today in Tyrone and Fermanagh and rushed to the scene of the kidnapping. The Ulster government announced its intention of taking drastic measures.

Among those kidnapped was Major Anketell-Mourthly, head of the Tyrone Orangemen. Former High Sheriff Carson of County Fermanagh, whose house was raided, resisted single handed for an hour until he was wounded and carried off in a motor car.

The house of Major Moore at Belleek, Fermanagh, was attacked, but he escaped.

Fired on Raiders.

A merchant named Elliott, at Enniskillen, fired on the raiders who his house was attacked and it is believed he wounded one of them. The merchant escaped.

Attacks were also made on the houses of former County Inspector McGuire and various other prominent Unionists in the vicinity of Enniskillen who were absent at the time from their dwellings.

A party of what are known as "A-Specials" was ambushed near Newtown Butler last evening by a large party of armed men. An engagement resulted in casualties on both sides. While this fight was occurring the residences of other constables of the same organization were visited and a number of the constables were kidnapped and carried over the border.

Registration Inspector Doonan, a prominent Unionist of Newtown Butler was taken to the hospital at Enniskillen suffering from gunshot wounds.

Mrs. Howard Martin of Palmyra, who has been ill for several weeks, is reported to be in a serious condition.

Fred Vaughan was a visitor in Sterling last evening.

EX-SERVICE MEN TO ENTER CONTEST FOR LEE COUNTY OFFICES

Slate of Candidates Being Made Up By Returned Soldiers.

A new factor has been introduced into politics in Lee county. It is announced that a nearly complete ticket of ex-service men will be candidates for nomination to county offices in the Republican primaries in April. The offices for which former soldiers in the world war will contest includes those of sheriff, treasurer and county clerk. It was said today that no candidate was under consideration for the position of County Judge, nor would there be a contest for Assistant Supervisor.

Plans Still Indefinite.

The plans of the ex-soldiers are apparently still in the formative stage, for no definite announcement as to names of candidates could be secured, although the names of several well known young men are mentioned for the various offices.

Not Official Action.

Local American Legion officials say that the Legion, as an organization, will take no active part in the campaign and it is against the policies of the organization to affiliate itself with partisan politics. What interest the ex-service men take in the fight will be as individuals and not as members of the Legion.

Railroad Situation Before National C. C.

Washington, Feb. 8.—The railroad situation was the chief topic for discussion on the program for the mid-year conference of the national council of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, which began here today, with addresses scheduled by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, Chairman Cummings of the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce, T. Powell, vice president of the Erie Railroad, and Walter S. Dickey, of Kansas City, a shipper.

A report of the national chamber's railroad committee recommending legislation to establish a federal agency in charge of a commissioner general of transportation to represent the public interest in controversies brought before other government bodies dealing with interstate commerce and transportation problems, was expected to be the center of the railroad discussions during the two days meeting.

JUDGE CLIFFE TO GET REPORT ON CONTENTS MRS. CRANE'S BOXES

Inventory Committee to Report to Court at Friday Session.

By Associated Press Leased Wire.

Aurora, Ill., Feb. 8.—It seems that Judge Cliffe let himself in for something when he named a committee of three to look into the boxes and barrels which were dumped upon the lawn of Herbert P. Crane's Wildrose Farm near St. Charles more than a week ago. In these boxes and barrels, Crane's former wife, Miss Elida Piza said, were all the presents he had given her. She returned them from her apartment in New York as a preliminary to an action to seize the estate farm on a $70,000 alimony balance. Crane had contended that she stripped his house of its furnishings before she left for her old home in San Jose, Costa Rica, and that he should not be required to pay up until she returned what she took.

Yesterday the inventory committee went through the boxes and barrels and when they had completed their job the way had been opened for new argument. Not all Miss Piza carried away had been returned, Crane's representative on the committee Charles Hazelhurst said. Everything had been returned, Miss Piza's lawyer De Goy Ellis said, except what belonged to her before her marriage.

To Report Friday.

Sheriff Claude Poole, representing the court, said nothing. He will report to the judge what was dug out of the barrels, mostly china and bric-a-brac. The judge is to hear the report Friday afternoon at Geneva.

Attorney Hazelhurst will demand that the judge order Miss Piza "to bring back the rest of the things."

Attorney Ellis said he will oppose such a motion.

"About all that has not been returned," he said, "is the baby's buggy. Finally as there was a light in the apartment, he concluded Taylor did not wish to be disturbed, so proceeded to place the car in the garage."

A quarrel between Taylor and Mabel Normand was told of by Harry Fellows, chauffeur for Taylor, according to the Los Angeles Examiner today.

Tells of Quarrel.

"I was driving Mr. Taylor and Miss Normand from a hotel where they attended a New Year's eve party, to her home," Fellows is reported to have said. "On the way they had a quarrel. I don't know what it was about, but both were very much excited. Mr. Taylor took Miss Normand home and then returned to his apartment. On arriving there he broke down and wept. On the following morning he did up some jewelry in a package and took it to Miss Normand at her home."

Harry Pooley, negro houseman for Taylor, who found the slain director's body, confirmed Fellows' statements. Fellows said that Taylor and Miss Normand were "very affectionate."

Fellows left Taylor's house at 4:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, on the night of which Taylor was slain. He was instructed to be sure to telephone at 7:30 o'clock, he said. He said that he telephoned from a girl's house at 7:55 o'clock and there being no answer from Taylor's home, he went there. He reached the Taylor place at 8:15 o'clock and rang the bell.

Officers Investigating
Taylor Murder Say
They Interfere.

BULLETIN.

By Associated Press Leased Wire.

Los Angeles Calif., Feb. 8.—Indications that powerful influences in the motion picture world were endeavoring to direct the inquiry about the killing of William Desmond Taylor into certain lines and to prevent its extension in other directions, were reported today by officers employed on the case.

By Associated Press Leased Wire.

Los Angeles, Calif., Feb. 8.—Location of Mabel Normand's and Mary Miles Minter's letters to William Desmond Taylor, murdered film director, the possibility of the issuance of a complaint charging murder against Edward F. Sands, Taylor's missing former butler-secretary; and renewed activity of detectives toward locating the sweetheart of a screen actress, reported to have been seen near the Taylor apartments the night of the murder were angles early today of the police investigation into the motion picture mystery.

The letters written to Taylor by Miss Normand, and for which she searched his apartments vainly two days after his murder, have been returned to her, according to three detectives working on the case. The return was made, it was declared, after a man connected with the film world, who had taken them for some unknown purpose during the finding of Taylor's body, had been threatened with a grand jury investigation. Who made this alleged threat was not stated, but a representative of Miss Normand said the letters had not been given back to her.

Police Never Had 'Em.

Captain of detectives David L. Adams stated the police never had letters in possession of Miss Normand's letters nor of those written by Miss Minter to Taylor, although the latter also, according to Captain Adams, have been returned to the writer.

Miss Minter has guards around her house to keep away uninvited callers, as she is ill, it is reported. Her apartment, however, denied she had received the letters.

William C. Doran, chief deputy district attorney stated a complaint charging Sands, or Edward Fitz Strathmore as he also is known, with the murder of Taylor, might be issued today, depending on developments.

Detective Sergeant Edward King, assigned to duty at the district attorney's office previously had made a similar statement.

It was reported also that more information had been given to the police to the effect a man in love with a screen actress, who did not return her love but who was believed to have affection for Taylor, had been seen near the Taylor apartments before the murder.

Mrs. MacLean Saw Driver.

A story told by Howard Fellows, chauffeur for Taylor, that about 8:15 o'clock the night of the murder he returned to the apartments with Taylor's car, was said by the police to have satisfied them it was he who was seen there by Mrs. Douglas MacLean, wife of a film actor, and her maid.

Fellows said he rang the bell several times but received no answer. Finally as there was a light in the apartment, he concluded Taylor did not wish to be disturbed, so proceeded to place the car in the garage.

FURNACE LINE SHIP BREAKING UP UNDER POUNDING OF WAVES

Coast Guards Taking Seamen Off; Seas Are Very High.

BULLETIN.

By Associated Press Leased Wire.

Highland Light, Mass., Feb. 8.—The Furness line freighter, Thistlemore, was piled high on this Cape Cod beach today a total wreck, probably with her crew endangered. Coast guards of the Captain Fortune, rigged up their breeches buoy to take off the fifty men. Seas were running high.

By Associated Press Leased Wire.

Boston, Feb. 8.—The British steamer Thistlemore, aground on Peaked Hill Bar, was breaking up amidships and apparently will not last until daylight, according to a wireless message intercepted at the Naval Radio Station here at 4:45 a. m. The message, signed by the doomed steamer's captain, asked that an attempt be made to take off part of the crew in boats. She went ashore on Peaked Hill Bar at the tip of Cape Cod late yesterday, but owing to the high sea and the gale, coast guards were unable to take the crew off. The coast guard cutter Tampa was standing by.

When the steamer settled into her sandy bed it was decided that the men aboard were not in imminent danger and the rescue apparatus was merely kept ready for use.

The Thistlemore left Boston yesterday for New York to finish unloading a cargo of freight from Liverpool. She registered 4,146 tons.

The Thistlemore was found to be leaking later. The wind increased to a velocity of 40 miles an hour, and it was decided to take off some of the men aboard. The first man was hauled from ship to shore in the breeches buoy, without mishap and the work of rescue went on. The weather was clear, but the seas continued high.

Los Angeles, Feb. 8.—A reply to criticisms of the motion picture colony here, resulting from the murder of William Desmond Taylor was issued by Mayor George E. Cryer, it was learned today.

"The attacks being made, particularly in outside cities, against the morals of the so-called motion picture colony in Los Angeles are unfair and are due, I believe, to hastily formed conclusions by people not familiar with real facts."

"The Arbuckle case and the slaying of Mr. Taylor were indeed unfortunate affairs, but it is not just to criticize an entire group of people, such as those engaged in the motion picture industry, for incidents, many of them not true as to fact, which have been published broadcast lately."

"Los Angeles is proud of the fact that it is the motion picture capital of the world. While my acquaintance with the personnel of the men and women engaged in this industry is not large, I am persuaded that there are hundreds of clean, law-abiding men and women engaged in the making of motion pictures, and in their behalf, I ask the open mind judgment and the even-handed justice characteristic of our American people."

DIXON ONE OF TWO PLACES OF NOTE ON ROUTE

Lincoln Touched Highway at Dixon and Gettysburg.

The current issue of the Lincoln Highway news journal contains the following of interest here:

Dixon, Ill.—When the promoters of the Lincoln Highway routed that pioneer trail across the continent, they brought it by the very site of the block house where Abraham Lincoln served as a soldier in the Black Hawk War in 1832. Here the Highway passes the only scenes of Lincoln's activities along its 3,500 miles across the continent, with the single exception of the battlefield where he made his famous Gettysburg address.

The State of Illinois has purchased title to the ground where the block-house stood on the Lincoln Highway here and it is expected that funds will be appropriated by the next legislature to construct a reproduction of the old block-house as another State memorial to Lincoln. Until recently this historic site was the property of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

It is appropriate that during the past year considerable activity was shown in this State toward preserving the scenes of Lincoln's day in Illinois. One of the State's greatest memorials to Lincoln, the Lincoln Highway, will be finally completed this year—a paved road from the Indiana line to the Mississippi River.

New York, Feb. 8.—Fire which broke out on board the former United States transport Northern Pacific off Cape May, N. J., at 10 o'clock last night, swept through the ship and at dawn was raging uncontrolled, said a wireless dispatch received here at 6:45 o'clock. At that time it appeared the ship would be a total loss.

The position of the burning vessel was reported to be 20 miles north-east by east of the Five Fathom lightship or about 40 miles due east of Cape May.

The four men who were missing were said later to have been employees of the Sun Ship Yard Company of Norfolk, Va., and not members of the vessel's crew. The Northern Pacific was on her way from Norfolk to Boston.

The wireless calls for aid sent out by the flaming steamer were first answered by the Housert G. Wylie and the Transportation, which reported at 8 o'clock, they had picked up boats containing members of the Northern Pacific's crew. The Transportation at that hour said:

"Have all the crew but nine men, who possibly are adrift."

A few minutes later the Wylie sent a radio, saying he had picked up a boat containing the second mate, a second engineer, two sailors and one oiler or fireman. A check of the rescued men was apparently made, however, for later it was said four men had not been found.

Stewards' Help Saved.

The second mate of the Northern Pacific when picked up by the Wylie asked that the Transportation be asked if all men employed in the steward's department of the burning ship were safe, adding: "They were virtually trapped by the fire."

The Transportation replied that all the men under the supervision of the Northern Pacific's stewards were safe and on board the rescuing vessel.

It was after 4 o'clock when the Northern Pacific was reported to have sunk. At 4:34 a dispatch stated she was "completely gone."

The Northern Pacific was built in 1915 by the William Cramp & Sons Ship Building Company of Philadelphia for the Great Northern Steamship Company. When the United States entered the war the vessel was taken over by the American government as a transport, and was in operation during virtually the entire period of the subsequent struggle.

On January 1, 1919 she went ashore off Fire Island when a mistake in the lights shown along the southern shore of Long Island confused her pilot. At this time she had aboard 3000 American soldiers being brought back to America from the battlefields of France. The soldiers were removed and the vessel was at last floated on Jan. 18.

Almost a year later on Jan. 20, 1920 she played a heroic role in rushing to the aid of the steamer Powhatan, now the Hudson, which was drifting helplessly off the Nova Scotia coast. She took off the passengers of the Powhatan, and landed them in New York.

The Northern Pacific was 509 feet long, 63 feet wide and had a depth of 21 feet. Her registered gross tonnage was 8255 tons.

Paving Ordinance Passed By Council

The city council met last evening and passed local improvement ordinance No. 204 which covers the paving program outlined for an early start. Bills against the city amounting to $2,386.69 were also read and ordered paid.

GRASS FIRE TODAY.

The fire department was summoned to Chicago street south of Seventh at noon yesterday to extinguish a grass fire which had started along the side of the road. This morning at 8 o'clock, the department was summoned to 218 Fifth street where a defective chimney had caught fire, but the blaze was extinguished without damage to the property.

REF. BYERS EULOGIZES LINCOLN

The regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary held yesterday afternoon in Legion hall was well attended. The Auxiliary transacted the usual business during the afternoon. The ladies of the Auxiliary are working with the Associated Charities and had charge of the meeting held today in the rooms over The Telegraph office on First street. The members of the different women's societies, as we understand it, are to have charge of the different Wednesdays, the meeting day in which to sew for the poor and the ladies of Auxiliary had charge of the meeting today.

Fix Time of Death

"I am satisfied that I am the man Mrs. Douglas Mac Lean saw standing on the porch and leaving the house," Fellows said. "I wore a cap and overcoat."

Miss Normand had informed the police that she left Taylor between 7:30 and 7:45 o'clock, and with Fellows telephoning at 7:55 o'clock, it is indicated that the crime was committed sometime between 7:30 and 7:55 o'clock.

The Examiner today published an unsigned letter found among Taylor's effects in which the writer painted a vivid word picture of an imaginary life with Taylor in "a beautiful woodland lodge" where they would "be all alone."

The letter told how the writer would cook, sweep and dust while Taylor "fetched the water and built the fire," how she would feed the birds and wait patiently for him to come home at night, and how, in the evenings, they would "sit cozily by the fire listening to the wind whistling outside." It frequently referred to Taylor as "you wonderful man."

Port of the letter was withheld by Examiner.

POPE EXPRESSES HIS ADMIRATION AND LOVE FOR AMERICAN PEOPLE

Also Expresses Regret U. S. Cardinals Were Late for Election.

Rome, Feb. 8.—(By the Associated Press.)—Pope Pius XI, expressed "unbounded admiration" for the American people and voiced his deep interest in the work of the Washington conference at his reception of Cardinal O'Connell of Boston yesterday.

"I was happy to see your peace-loving country take the first step toward amelioration of this monstrous evil of armament," the Pontiff said. "Like my illustrious and lamented predecessor, I have unbounded admiration for the energy and charity and the great heart of your people."

Then laying his hand on the American cardinal's shoulder, he added slowly:

"You Americans are young in years, but old in wisdom, worldly prudence and foresight. Your innate qualities of fairness, justice and peace, your great moral and spiritual stability and your infinite riches, make you the hope and anchor sheet of the world."

Is Like An American.

The Pope expressed his profound disappointment that America had not been represented at the conclave which elected him, saying:

"It was a great personal sorrow that you were not present."

Cardinal O'Connell told the correspondent that the holy father was much like an American, modesty and sweetness of manner were his dominant traits, and his manner was most democratic.

The reason for his choice of the name "Pius" was explained by the new pontiff yesterday to Cardinal Lualaba.

"I was born under a Pius; I came to Rome under a Pius; Pius is the name of peace—then Pius shall be my name," he said.

Samson Price Drop Benefits Farmers

To assist further in stabilizing industry through these last weeks of readjustment, the Samson Tractor Company announces a further reduction in the price of their famous Model M tractor to $445.00. This makes the price, including platform and fenders, belt pulley assembly and governor control, $555.00.

This is by far the lowest price at which the Samson Tractor has ever sold and is especially significant because it includes the many valuable improvements made upon the tractor since its first came upon the market three years ago.

The reduction is considered a temporary one only with the price subject to be raised without notice.

In making this temporary reduction, the Company states further:

"As soon as farmers can enter the market again with normal purchasing power based on fundamentally sound profits from their business, all industry can settle down to normal stability and happiness. This condition, to be permanent and healthy, cannot be brought about by merely increasing or curtailing production, by inflating market prices, or by the artificial means of legislation. It can be hastened, however, by any means that lowers the cost of production thereby increasing the farmers' profits."

"Characteristic of the American farmers' perseverance, he is going to work this Spring with courage undiminished and with renewed determination to carry on his business with profit. He knows that from 60 to 80 per cent of the operating expense of his business is composed of man and horse labor costs. He knows that these costs are the most vulnerable points for attack in his endeavors to secure a lower cost of production, and that power farming is the weapon for that attack. But in equipping themselves now for increased profits, many farmers must now buy equipment in the face of recent reverses."

"Implement dealers and implement manufacturers have suffered serious losses as the aftermath of war. But neither the farmer, the dealer nor the manufacturer was sympathetic. They simply want action, and the situation calls for earnest co-operation between the three."

"Regardless of its own tremendous sacrifice by this reduction, the Samson Tractor Company brings the price of its tractor within easy reach of farmers in spite of their past reverses. It enables farmers to profit making units by the use of which their purchasing power can be increased for the stabilizing of all industry and for hastening normal prosperity for the American public of which the farmer composes a large part." W. N. Ware is the local representative of the Samson Co.—Adv.

BAPTIST PASTOR WAS SPEAKER AT MEETING OF CLUB YESTERDAY

Kiwanians Enjoyed Talk By Rev. Simpson on Community Life.

The Kiwanis Club had a jolly good time at the weekly luncheon Tuesday at St. Luke's church. The address by Rev. John Simpson, pastor of the Baptist church was strong and also humorous, much to the enjoyment of his auditors. It might be said that Mr. Simpson's address dwelt largely with "Individualism." It was the individual he talked most about, for by and through the individual, he said, clubs organized for the betterment of the community in which they existed grew strong in the work and the program they had outlined.

Rev. Simpson declared that each individual had a part to perform in the community's program. The doctor can do much for the health and happiness of the community; the lawyer can do much toward law enforcement and in the building of the community; the merchant has a part to perform. He comes in close contact with the individuals who supply the necessary needs for the life of the community.

"Every individual contributes something for the welfare of the community," declared the speaker. "Every individual is doing something in his humble way in building the social structure of the city of Dixon. This club, this organization, the Kiwanis club, can do and is doing much toward bringing out the good things of life in this community."

The speaker likened the Kiwanis club to the church. He declared that during the several times he was a guest of the club he saw much similarity to the church. He said he thought of his church.

"Thought of Prayer Meeting."

"When I see such a small attendance here I think of the prayer meeting. When I hear the report of the finance committee that the funds are short I think of same condition in my church. When I hear the song leader here appealing to the members to put up pen in their singing, it recalls to my mind my poor distracted Sunday School superintendent who appeals to the boys and girls and adults to throw their souls into the singing. And so on, and so forth.

"Doesn't it remind us so much of the church, the great institution through which so many good and wonderful things can be done for the humanity and for the welfare of humanity?"

H. A. Ahrens was taken in to the club as a new member. Mr. Ahrens responded to a call for a speech. Prof. W. P. Strong, in a peppy speech, presented to the club a picture of the framed of the International Brotherhood of the Future, the delegates to this conference from the local club were Mr. Strong, Oliver Rogers and Secretary Oxnann of the Chamber of Commerce. The delegates can be plainly seen in the picture, and several of the members were thoughtless enough to remark that was one reason for presenting the picture.

Upon the motion of Louis Pitcher the club accepted the picture.

For Community Chorus. In his usual manner, made a strong speech in behalf of the Community Chorus. The Postmaster believes that more men should become identified with this chorus.

Through the earnest efforts of the club's song leader, Ray Kline, the songs sung were full of pep. The ladies served a splendid banquet, plenty of good things to eat.

Next week the club will listen to an address from C. B. Scott who comes from the Bureau of Safety, Chicago and he will discuss the subject of safety. It is hoped that a large membership will be present to hear Mr. Scott.

A MAN'S PRAYER—

Let me live, O Mighty Master,
Such a life as men should know.
Tasting triumph and disaster,
Joy—and not too much woe;
Let me run the gamut over,
Let me fight and love and laugh,
And when I'm beneath the clover
Let this be my epitaph:

Here lies one who took his chances
In the busy world of men;
Battled luck and circumstances,
Fought and fell and fought again;
Won sometimes, but did not crowing;
Lost sometimes, but didn't wall,
Took his beating, but kept going,
Never let his courage fail.

He was fallible and human,
Therefore loved and understood
Both his fellow men and women,
Whether good or not so good;
Fought his spirit undiminished,
Never deceived a friend,
Played the game till it was finished,
Lived a sportsman to the end.
—Unknown.

TWINS, 87, CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY THIS MONTH—

Mrs. A. C. Housh and her twin sister, Mrs. Carrie Jones, the former mother of Mrs. Emma Hurd, of La-Moille, are planning to celebrate their 87th birthday on Feb. 22. They are said to be the oldest twins living in Illinois and probably in the United States. A picture of the twins was printed Jan. 24, in the magazine section of the Chicago Herald-Examiner. These twins were born in Onondago County, New York in 1835, and came the same year to Illinois. They made the trip in a covered wagon. Their maiden name was Oudekirk. Mrs. Housh was married in 1857 at Knoxville, Ill., and has one son and a daughter. Mrs. Jones was married in 1860.

THEY ADD GREATLY TO ONE'S PEACE OF MIND—

Every smart woman knows the value of just the proper lingerie, for gone are the days of the beruffled petticoat that was worn under any type of gown, regardless of whether it suited or not.
Now underthings are selected with infinite care and fitted quite as particularly as the frocks to be worn over them. We have learned that lingerie must be more than merely dainty and adorable, that it must provide a suitable foundation—be part of the gown and not just a decorative accessory that is usually effective and often ill-fitting.

25TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED—

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Breisch of South Dixon were very pleasantly surprised Sunday evening by a company of relatives and friends who gathered in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Breisch's twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. The evening was delightfully spent in music and social chat. A delicious luncheon was served. A feature of the evening was the presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Breisch of a beautiful silver tea set by the guests. Mr. and Mrs. Breisch expressed their appreciation of the gift and the thought prompting it.

At a late hour the guests departed, wishing the host and hostess many happy returns of the day.

She traced the history and travels of the children of Israel from the beginning until their arrival in the land of Canaan, and the death of their leader Moses on Mount Nebo near the Dead Sea. Miss Laing's paper beside being very interesting was highly instructive.

Mrs. H. U. Bardwell and Mrs. C. H. Ives gave answers to questions on the subject for the afternoon.

LADIES OF G. A. R. HAD MEETING—

The Ladies' of the G. A. R. held a largely attended meeting Monday afternoon in G. A. R. hall.

WASTED

The new Japanese yearly budget appropriates the equivalent of $233,- 000,000 for army and navy. Schools get $25,500,000.

Eleven times as much for war preparations as for education!

The person who does not see the fallacy of that is a 14-carrot idiot.
And people are beginning to see!

People, of all nations, of all races, are coming out of their trance. The super-hypnotist, War, is far from dead. But his ultimate extinction is inevitable. Handwriting is on the wall.

WEAPON

China, beaten out of her just rights by Japan at the Washington parley, will retaliate with an economic war.
Put the Chinese boycott of Japanese goods into effect again, is the order sent out by Chinese workers' unions and secret societies.

It will take time, but the boycott will do more to make Japan toe the mark than any conference.

Trade boycott is mightier than poison gas, bombing plane or submarine.
It has enormous powers to prevent future wars. The pocketbook is the Achilles' Heel of modern nations.

A DRY WORLD

The world will be bone-dry in 1950, predicts "Pussyfoot" Johnson, of the Anti-Saloon League. He is back in his Ohio home after a nine-months' tour of Europe and India.

India will be the next country to give up liquor, says Pussyfoot. India has 350,000,000 people. All except $2,000,000 of these are forbidden to drink, by their religions. The Hindu wets are becoming temperate. Pussy-foot found. More important, they are running out of rum.

Denmark, which prefers whisky to beer, is climbing on the wagon—235 of its parishes have voted dry.

"Pussyfoot" Johnson may be guessing wrong on the absolute date at which the world will be bone-dry. But it's coming. The prohibition movement, which got its real start in America, is sweeping the world.

Man is freeing himself from the slavery of drugs and John Barleycorn, as he freed himself from human slavery.

ARTIFICIAL

Is civilization on the wrong track?
A visitor comes to Dixon. With greatest pride you point out the tallest buildings and other construction achievements like bridges and pavements.

City life, at its best, is artificial, unnatural.

The things we build out of brick, steel and cement are merely tools for enabling civilization to exist.

The real civilization, often miscalled "culture," is not material. It is spiritual and intellectual. That is the real measure of a town—the character and knowledge of its people.

How ridiculous, to strive constantly for a bigger town instead of a better town!

FORD

Henry Ford is quoted as saying he paid Uncle Sam $16,000,000 in taxes last year. If his taxes were that big, his taxable income must have been more than $100,000,000.

The Wall Street Journal quotes this comment by an anonymous banker: "The Class I railroads will have a net operating income for 1921 slightly in excess of $600,000,000, of which creditors will receive about $500,000,000, and to owners will ac-cure a little more than $100,000,000.
In short, all the Class I railroads in the United States will have in 1921 about the same taxable income as Ford had in the year to which he refers."

The reason? Ford believes in big volume of business at low prices.

That system should be applied to freight rates.

WONDERS

Children, tinkering with wireless telephony and toy moving picture outfits, make us grown-ups realize that we'll have to double our step to keep pace with the world.
Some nursery movie films are sold as low as a cent a foot. The price ranges up to 10 cents a foot for films that can't catch fire or explode.

Do you remember the first movie you saw—how it thrilled you? The scientific marvel of yesterday is the toy of today.

If it keeps on, we'll be getting old-fashioned every 24 hours.

GAMBLE

The psychology of poker-playing is being studied at Columbia University.
Prof. Charles Coburn, psychologist, comments:

"If science can study poker and find out what there is in the game that keeps men at it all night, and then apply that to teaching children, something will be gained."

The lure of poker is in big stages and desperate chances. Life has the same uncertainties. Children, at school, are getting their "hands" and chips for the game to follow graduation. School would be more interesting if they could be made to realize the gamble that lies ahead, also destructibility of holding a good hand.

CHEERING

Farmers, in the depths of gloom, should take cheer of this:

For the first 11 months of the year, wheat exports from our country were 269,49,218 bushels in 1921, against 192,382,961 bushels in 1920 and 138,
566,464 bushels in 1919.

And, for 11 months, corn exports were 118,311,271 bushels in 1921, against 14,720,333 bushels in 1920 and 9,666,544 bushels in 1919.

This again proves that falling off in foreign trade is largely a price hoax. The consolation is that these big grain exports will cut down the carry-over. That favors higher prices for farmers in 1922.

A RAISIN IN IT

Tony Corello, New York barber, was shaving a customer when a stranger kicked in the plate glass window, tore up the barber chairs by their roots, hurled them into the street, then finished wrecking the shop.

Tony told the police the damage was $1500.

The stranger said he had just been in a saloon on the upper East Side, had two drinks and remembered nothing further.

Death doesn't lurk in every bottle of bootleg whisky. Some bottles merely have insanity, temporary or permanent.

One swallow doesn't make a summer. But it sometimes makes a madman or a job for the undertaker.

MONEY

Thirty per cent of the money England is spending abroad is for American-made goods. We're also getting 44 per cent of Italy's foreign spending, 60 per cent of Spain's, 35 per cent of Japan's, 75 per cent of Canada's, 47 per cent of Brazil's.

So the list runs, with Uncle Sam getting his share—or more—in all the principal markets of the world. Buying between nations is stagnant.
That's the trouble, not that we're losing out and some one else gaining.

FOOD

Plenty of food being grown for next year. Government crop report says farmers have planted 44,293,000 acres of winter wheat, compared with 44,847,000 acres last year.

The condition of the crop is 76, the lowest on record. Blame that on nature. Farmers have done their best.

Peculiar thing about the farmers.
If they had to give away their crops for nothing, they'd go right out and patiently work at another big crop.
They grumble, but stick to the plow.

Do you know of any better kind of citizen.

ABSENT

The chief crops raised by American farmers in 1921 were worth $5,675,- $77,000, says final government report.

That is $3,400,000,000 less than the 1920 crops and $8,000,000,000 less than the crops of 1919.

That "less" explains a lot about business depression. It shows how much the farmers' ability to purchase manufactured products has been reduced.

BACK

The mouth organ is coming back.
Large heaps of them are displayed in music store windows. The fad will probably take strong hold, for the college boys have taken it up.

Historians will chuckle at this and say: "History repeats. Everything runs in cycles. All things come back."

When I started to grow fatter it it could not be said to matter
If I added, now and then, a pound or two;
For my clothes still fitted trimly and my figure mirrored slimly
But—how rapidly one's tissue will accrue!
For I found out very shortly I was growing slightly portly—
And the fact is I was something more than that.
But my garments were refitted once or twice ere I admitted
That my figure was indubitably fat!

Now in Turkish baths I'm panting in a course of fevered banting
And I can't eat much of anything but greens
And I wear a vest of rubber to remove excessive blubber
And I'm learning what starvation truly means.
It's a heavy task and wearing to reduce this load I'm bearing,
For I've had a demonstration that a bulbous corporation
Is much easier to get than take away!

When you find you're growing burly start your treatments very early.
For prevention's far, far easier than cure.
Just the minute that your outline threatens to become a stout line
It's a sign your carbohydrates should be fewer;
Still, if by secretions steady, you have grown too fat already
You can make a lot of money getting lean.

BEWARE "FLU" AS YOU WOULD A MAD DOG

Common Sense Wars to Keep Well

An epidemic of influenza has broken out which, while not of the frequency or severity of the epidemics of the last several years, is still no less dangerous in that unless it is checked quickly it will spread far and wide.

The great epidemics of this disease taught people to beware of "flu" as they would of a mad dog.

People are learning, perhaps slowly, that the sneezer is dangerous and the cougher as bad, that the open window in the street car is absolutely necessary to keep the air fresh.

It is necessary to keep the body in the highest condition of resisting ability during the winter that it may throw off all poisons and germs.

To keep the skin and circulation in proper condition, people must wear light weight but warm clothing, have fresh air in the bedrooms and beware of fatigue.

A cold spray about the neck and chest usually renders the skin resist-ent even to draughts. Wet feet and thin soled shoes are cordial invitations to influenza.

Overwork to the point of fatigue overheating and constipation should be avoided.

Alcohol, "cold cures," and heavy doses of whisky and quinine should also be avoided.

Overheated and overcrowded houses which lack sunlight and fresh air are ideal places for influenza to get a foothold and spread. One should carefully watch the thermometer and never let the temperature rise above 70.

It is more healthful to have the temperature between 65 and 68.
If you have a bad cold or even suspect influenza, call a physician.

INDIAN, SAID TO BE 137 YEARS OLD, DIED IN MINNESOTA TUES.

Pneumonia, Not Old Age, Was Cause of Death of Wrinkled Man.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Cass Lake, Minn., Feb. 8.—Arrangements were to be completed today for the funeral of Ga-be-nah-gawn-wonce, Chippewa Indian, said to be 137 years old, who died here yesterday.

It is planned to hold services in the Catholic church here Thursday. The aged Indian, also known as Wrinkled Man and John Smith, joined the church several years ago. According to present plans there will be only simple services, with no Indian ceremonies.

Wrinkled Man died, not of old age, but from pneumonia contracted a week ago. When the end came, he lay on the floor, holding out to the last moment against being placed in a bed, which he contended was no place for a husky warrior. Several years ago, when struck by a switch engine, he was taken to a hospital but refused a bed, seeking instead, a "comfortable" place on the floor. He rolled into a blanket and remained on the floor for three weeks until he recovered.

Most of his life was spent in Northern Minnesota in the vicinity of Cass Lake, and his birthplace, near what is now Pokegama.

For 109 years of his life he had been married, having had eight wives. The only survivor, however, is Tim Smith, a stepson, at whose home he died.

It is declared to be reasonably authentic that he was about 137 years old.

The United States Bureau of Indian Affairs, the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society, and various other historical societies that have interested themselves in this famous aborigine, in fact, had been led to accept the claim of Ga-be-nah-gawn-wonce and his fellow Indians on the Minnesota reservation that he was "the oldest living person."

Ga-be-nah-gawn-wonce was also known as Wah-ha-gunta, and would even answer to plain John Smith. According to the Bureau of Indian Affairs, he was fire-maker of the once powerful Blackfoot tribe. His declining days were spent on the north bank of Mud Lake, twelve miles from the village of Ball Club, Minn., where he lived in a hut of birch bark. He outlived several wives, and when long past the century mark he was still young enough to woo another.

Step was Sprightly
His once powerful frame had slowly wasted, his hair turned pure white, and his face became seamed like a walrus hide, but his step was still sprightly and he never stepped from his hut without humming a song tune. His unusual fondness for music was one of his peculiarities. Often he walked the twelve miles to Ball Club to hear a piano or violin, his favorite musical instruments. When a rag-time air was struck up, the old Indian would smile broadly, his black beady eyes would sparkle, and he would lift his shoulders and snap his fingers in real cabaret style.

Historians made use of the Indian's remarkable memory to corroborate stories of the Indian fights, some of them back as far as 1800. Smith was often able to give the year, month, and sometimes the day of Indian happenings that had been lost track of.

One event in his early life which the aged Indian related in detail and which he declared was imprinted even more firmly in his memory than important happenings of the last few years, was a massacre by the Sioux Indians in Minnesota near the present sites of the Twin Cities. The massacre resulted from an effort by a missionary, known to the Indians as Pah-de-gree, to effect a conciliation between the Sioux and Chippewas. Many hundreds of the latter were slain, Smith said he was but ten years old at that time.

The "falling of the stars," the shower of meteors that occurred in 1833, he recalled minutely. He was about 40 years old at that time.

In a recent interview, Smith said, through an interpreter, that forty years ago he could speak English quite fluently, but that in recent years since his mind became less active, the language almost deserted him.

Indian customs, closely followed, he considered the big factor in ex-

Paralytic Rescued Woman from River

Chicago, Feb. 7.—John Penn, whose left arm is paralyzed, leaped into the Chicago river last night and rescued Mrs. Jennie Lorenzen, 42, who the police say had attempted to take her life, by drowning. Mrs. Lorenzen attempted to take her life, it is said, because her left side is paralyzed.

Mrs. Chas. Bartholme, 1002 Chestnut Ave., Dixon, says: "I was run down and I lost flesh. I was in a most miserable condition and my ambition was completely gone. I had constant nagging aches and pains in the small of my back all the time. I used to get weak spells when I thought I was going to pitch forward. My kidneys were too free in action and caused annoyance. A friend advised Doan's Kidney Pills and after using them I commenced to feel better. I only used two boxes and I was a well woman again. Two years later I had a little trouble but I took another box of Doan's and they cured me. I haven't used them since."

SECOND VOLLEY BALL TOURNEY IS UNDER WAY

Squalls and Quarrels Marred Fun in Op- ening Games.

The second volley ball tournament opened last evening amidst squalls, tempests, thunderstorms and various other disturbances. Both teams had a full lineup and the first game was a whizz going to the Terrapins 15-11. The Snails settled down to business in the second and began to annex a few points which kinda riled a prominent Terrapin and some squawking resulted which marred some of the fun, but with the passing of time the fun began again. The Snails took the remaining two games, 15-7 and 15-3, for a total of 41-25, which is quite the reverse of the way they performed during the last tournament.

Terrapins: Leland, Capt.; Rogers.

Potter, Schildberg, Forsythe and Weiss.
Snails: Dutcher, Capt.; Rawls, Rose, Wheeler, Moore and Kuhn. Referee: DerKinderen. Scorer: Smith.

Two Trustees Made Escape from Prison at Joliet Yesterday

Joliet, Ill., Feb. 7.—Joseph Geister, 25, and John G. Bahus, 26, escaped through an unbarred window in the warden's quarters of the state penitentiary here this morning. The men were employed as trustees in the main building of the institution. They crawled through an unbarred window of the basement of the warden's quarters.

Geister was serving a sentence of from one to ten years. He was received on March 21, 1921. Bahus was received May 14, 1919 from Cook county and was serving a sentence of 1 to 14 years for robbery.

The men's clothes were found by guards a mile south of the penitentiary in the railroad yards. Guards were sent to search for them in an effort to prevent them from reaching Chicago.

A DIFFERENCE

THERE is a wide difference in what you get for what you pay when it comes to buying clothing. There are the final touches of finishing which mean so much both to the appearance and the wearing service; there are the carefully inspected woolen fabrics and materials which go into the making that add to the ultimate satisfaction you experience; then there is the skilled workmanship which assures actual fitting garments—garments which properly shape themselves to the figure, giving the lines of custom tailoring.

These are the elements entering into clothing that give a well-defined character of superiority—which make them stand out so prominently when compared with ordinary makes—and it is these elements of character that distinguish the J. C. Penney Company clothing from all others.

GUNSIGHT PASS

by WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINES

The crook broke down. "I'll tell you right where the gold's at. In the lean-to of the shack. Buried in a gunnysack."

They rode back across the valley to the cabin. Miller pointed out the spot where the stolen treasure was cached. With an old axe as a spade Dave dug away the dirt till he came to the sack.

CHAPTER XXVII

Reluctantly, Miller repeated his story to Sheriff Applegate. Under the circumstances he was not sorry that he was to be returned to the penitentiary, for he recognized that his life at large would not be safe so long as Shorty and Doble were ranging the hills.

The sheriff gave Crawford a receipt for the gold after he had counted it and found none missing.

The old cattleman rose from the table and reached for his hat.

"Come on, son," he said to Dave. "I'll say we've done a good day's work. Both of us were under a cloud. Now we're clear. Applegate, you'll get both of the confessions of Miller fixed up, won't you? I'll want the one about George Doble's death to take with me to the governor of Colorado. I'm taking the train tomorrow."

"I'll have the district attorney fix up the papers," the sheriff promised. Emerson Crawford hooked an arm under the elbow of Sanders and left the office.

"I'm wonderin' about one thing, boy," he said. "Did Miller kill George Doble accidentally or on purpose?"

"That Denver bartender said they had been quarreling a good deal. They were having a row at the very time when I met them at the gate of the corral. It's a ten-to-one shot that Miller took the chance to plug Doble and make me pay for it."

"Looks likely but we'll never know. Son, you've had a rotten deal handed you."

"Nobody can give you back the years of yore life you've lost," the cattleman went on. "But we'll get your record straightened out, anyhow so that you won't stand against you. I know one I'll girl will be tickled to hear the news. Joy always has stuck out that you were treated shameful."

"There's somethin' else I'm going to have put into the minutes of the next meetin', Dave," Crawford went on. "And that's your election as treasurer of the company. I want officers around me that I can trust, son."

"I don't know anything about finance or about bookkeeping," Dave said.

"You'll learn. I want some one for treasurer that's level-headed and knows how to make a quick turn when he has to, some one that uses the gray stuff in his occiput. We'll fix a salary when we get goin'. You and Bob are goin' to have the active management of this concern. Cattle's my line, an' I aim to stick to it. Him and you can talk it over and fix yore duties so they won't conflict. Burns, of course, will run the actual drillin'. He's an A1 man. Don't let him go."

Dave was profoundly touched. No man could be kinder to his own son, could show more confidence in him, than Emerson Crawford was to one who had no claims upon him.

He murmured a dry "Thank you"; then, feeling this to be inadequate, added, "I'll try to see you don't regret this."

The cattleman was a shrewd judge of men. His action now was not based solely upon humanitarian motives. It was good business to make it worth his while to stick to Crawford's enterprises.

CHAPTER XXVIII

Emerson Crawford helped himself to another fried egg from the platter and shook his knife at the bright-eyed girl opposite.

"I tell you, honey, the boy's a wonder," he insisted. "Knows what he wants and goes right after it. Don't waste any words. Don't beat around the bush."

Joyce jumped up and ran around the table to him. She sat on the arm of his chair, a straight, slim creature very much alive, and pressed her face of flushed loveliness against his head. "It won't be your fault, old duck, if things don't go well with him. But he's so—Oh, I don't know—stiff as a poker. Acts as if he doesn't want to be friends, as if we're all ready to turn against him. He makes me good and tired, Dad. Why can't he be human?"

"Now, Joy, you got to remember—"

"Some one's got to blow up that young man like a Dutch uncle, and I think I'm elected. It'll be fun to see how he takes it."

Joyce found her chance next day. He would have passed with a bow if she had let him.

She hesitated, uncertain of her opening. Then, "You're disappointing your friends, Mr. Sanders," she said lightly.

"Let's walk," she continued, and he noticed that the eyes and mouth had softened to a tender smile. "I can't talk here, Dave."

They walked out of the town into the golden autumn sunlight of the foothills. Neither of them spoke. She carried herself buoyantly, chin up, her face a flushed cameo of loveliness.

"YOU'RE DISAPPOINTING YOUR FRIENDS, MR. SANDERS," SHE SAID LIGHTLY.

ness. As she took the uphill trail a white breath of wind wrapped the small skirt about her slender limbs. He found in her a new note, one of unaccustomed shyness.

The silence grew at last too significant. She was driven to break it. "I suppose I'm foolish," she began haltingly. "But I had been expecting—all of us had—that when you came home from—Denver—the first time, I mean—you would be the old Dave Sanders we all knew and liked. We wanted our friendship to—help make up to you for what you must have suffered. We didn't think you'd hold us off like this."

"I could tell you," he said in a whisper, to himself, but she just caught the words.

"Won't you try?" she said, ever so gently.

He could not sully her innocence by telling of the furtive whisperings that had fouled the prison life, made of it an experience degrading and corrosive. He told her, instead, of the externals of that existence, of how he had risen, dressed, eaten, worked, exercised, and slept under orders. He described to her the cells, four by seven by seven, barred, built in tiers, faced by narrow iron balconies, each containing a stool, a chair, a shelf, a bunk.

When he had finished he knew that he had failed. She wept for pity and murmured, "You poor boy—You poor boy!"

He tried again, and this time he drew the moral. "Don't you see, I'm a marked man—marked for life." He hesitated, then pushed on. "You're fine and clean and generous—if I come too near you, don't you see I taint you?"

"Fiddlesticks! You're a man who has been done a wrong. After all, you've been found innocent." "That isn't what counts. I've been in the penitentiary. Nothing can wipe that out. The stain of it's on me and can't be washed away."

She turned on him with a little burst of feminine ferocity. "How dare you talk that way, Dave Sanders! I want to be proud of you. We all do. But how can we be if you give up like a quitter?"

The color crept into his face. "I'm not quitting. The point is whether I'm to ask my friends to carry my load for me."

"What are your friends for?" she demanded, and her eyes were like stars in a field of snow. "Don't you see it's an insult to assume they don't want to stand with you in your trouble? You've been warped. You've eaten up with vain pride." Joyce bit her lip to choke back a swelling in her throat.

"But you've got to look at this my way, too," he urged. "I can't repay your father's kindness—yes, and yours, too—by letting folks couple your name, even in friendship, with a man who—"

She turned on him, glowing with color. "Now that's absurd, Dave Sanders. I'm not a—nice little china doll. I'm a flesh-and-blood girl. And I'm not a statue on a pedestal. Let's stop this foolishness and be sure-enough friends—Dave."

He took her outstretched hand in his brown palm, smiling down at her. "All right. I know when I'm beaten."

"And now I don't know whether I've done right," she said ruefully. "Dad warned me I'd better be careful."

"You've done me a million dollars' worth of good. Please don't regret it."

"Well, I won't," she added, in a hesitant murmur. "You won't—misunderstand?"

His look turned aside the long-lashed eyes and brought a faint flush of pink to her cheeks.

"No, I'll not do that," he said.

CHAPTER XXIX

Up in the hills back of Bear Canon two men were camping.

"Might's well be hittin' the trail," one growled.

The other nodded without speaking, rose lazily, and began to pack the camp outfit. He was a squat, heavy set man with a Chihuahua hat. Also he was a two-gun man.

The man who had spoken rose with one lithe twist of his big body. His eyes, hard and narrow, watched the shorter man disappear in the brush. Then he turned swiftly and strode toward the shoulder of the ridge.

In the heavy undergrowth of dry weeds and grass he stopped and tested the wind with a handanna handkerchief. The breeze was steady and fairly strong. It blew down the canyon toward the foothills beyond.

The man stripped from a scrub oak a handful of leaves. They were very brittle and crumbled in his hand. A match flared out. His palm cupped it for a moment to steady the blaze before he touched it to the crisp foliage. Into a nest of twigs he thrust the small flame.

The twigs, dry as powder from a four-months' drought, crackled like miniature fireworks. The grass caught, and a small line of fire ran quickly out.

For the ailing, half-sick housewife such a union is impossible. Often times even the slightest form of housework cannot be accomplished. Yet the work must be done.

Many women struggle along for years suffering from some form of female trouble that makes their lives miserable and their homes far from happy.

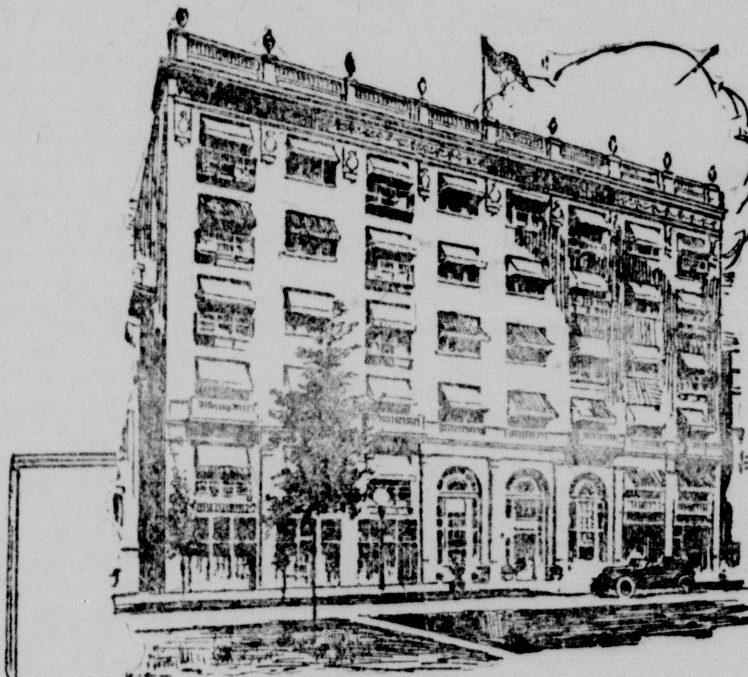

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped thousands of just such women regain their health and strength. Just give your thought to the following letters and remember that the women who wrote these letters knew how they felt before taking the Vegetable Compound and again afterwards. It helped them—let it help you.

Had Nervous Spells

Horatio, Ark.—"I had nervous spells and awful bad feelings. My right side and my back hurt me all the time and I had been going down in health for six or seven years. For three years I had not been able to do my work without help. I weighed only 95 pounds when my husband's mother persuaded me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Now I heartily recommend it to all suffering women, as I have gained weight and health. I can do all my work, anything I want to do."—Mrs. JIM REARCE, Horatio, Arkansas.

Recommends the Vegetable Compound

New Orleans, La.—"I have found relief from my troubles by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I praise it wherever I go. I could not do my work as it should be done for I would sometimes have to lie down because of the pains I had. A friend induced me to take your Vegetable Compound and I have got great results from it. I keep house and am able to do all my own work. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends who have troubles similar to mine."—Mrs. T. FOSCKLER, 1915 N. Derbigny St., New Orleans, La.

Coaches Aroused to Fight Professional Sporting Activities

Chicago, Feb. 7.—(By the Associated Press)—Athletic directors of seven middle western universities, in statements to the Associated Press today, suggested drastic action to combat professionalism in college sports and agreed that prompt action must be taken, particularly in regard to football.

The suggestions included abolishment of professional football, formation of a national organization to fight professionalism in colleges, aid from the press in preserving college amateurism, cooperation with professional organizations to prevent signing of college men, and a general athletic housecleaning at once in all universities.

Some directors urged immediate revision of the rules on professionalism. Another placed the blame for professionalism squarely on the schools themselves saying they "had winked at summer baseball so long" that they had brought on the recent revelations of professional football.

Many urged prompt settlement of the summer ball question as help towards clearing up the matter.
